PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Whether we agree with them or not, those running for office deserve our time and respect. I have been coordinating forums for 28 years and have observed that it is not an easy thing to stand up, face your peers, present your views, and many times even have to defend yourself.

Why do people run for public office? There are many reasons that bring someone to seek election, some honorable, some more selfish. All have to face public scrutiny. It is at this time of year that the league steps up to do some of its best work, fulfilling our mission of an educated electorate. We are called upon, both in the voter guide and at forums, to present candidates to the public so that voters can make informed choices.

Many league members participated in the interviews of over 100 candidates for Detroit City Council and Detroit Charter Commission. These candidates came with a heartfelt desire to make their city better, some with minimal political experience. They overcame fear and insecurity to stand up to public scrutiny.

You should be proud to be part of an organization, entrusted by many, to present candidates to the public without bias. All who help at a forum or with the voter guide should feel especially proud.

Judy Bateman, Co-President

THANK YOU to LWVOA members who helped with the interviews and taping in Detroit of the Detroit City Council and Detroit Charter Commission candidates for the Primary election and General Election: Mary Ann Barkach, Judy Bateman, Jerry Burden, Karen DeGrendel, Ann Edwards, Patricia Finn, Fran Fisher, Shaniya Jarrett, Deb Macon, John Magary, Marge Polidori, Barbara Suhay, and Demetria Taylor.

These videos were a co-operative project of the University of Michigan Dearborn's Institute for Local Government, ARISE Detroit, Detroit Public TV, WWJ Radio, and the League of Women Voters. They were coordinated by Susan Rowe of LWV Northwest Wayne and U of M Dearborn. The videos were available on the MiVote.org website and were aired on Detroit Public TV as a public service for voters.

Health Care As We Age

The LWV Detroit Metropolitan Area meeting of September 21 at the Community House in Birmingham on “Health Care As We Age” drew attendees – League and non-League -- from throughout the metropolitan area.

Dr. Peter Lichtenberg, Director of the Institute of Gerontology at Wayne State University spoke about “Successful Aging”. He stated that seniors can continue to be active, but are likely to focus on fewer items to enable them to carry on well with things that matter most to them. He noted that, as people age, they often tend to become more creative. The need for affection and confirmation of their contributions to society becomes more important to seniors than status. Aging successfully is aided by humor, music or dance or movement, nutrition to keep the brain healthy, volunteering and social connection. Relationships are key to success.

Karen Jackson-Holzauer, Nutrition Contract Manager for the Area Agency on Aging 1-B (AAA 1-B), spoke on “Preserving Independence and Quality of Life for Seniors”. She explained that the Older Americans Act led to the creation of the Area Agency on Aging to help older adults. AAA 1-B was created 30 years ago to serve Oakland County where 28% of Michigan’s seniors live. The organization provides resources and information on aging services. They can answer questions on Medicare (including Part B – medical services and Part D – prescriptions) and Medicaid and other programs. Care-giving assistance is a more recent addition designed to help seniors stay in their homes instead of nursing homes. Such help is available to local relatives who are looking after faraway seniors. She noted that volunteers (often other seniors) are important to programs such as home meals, transportation, etc.

State Senator John Pappageorge, 13th District, spoke on Long-term Care. He stated that government aid should focus on assisting people to live as normal lives as possible rather than simply supporting them in nursing homes. He noted that Assisted Living Centers are less costly ($45/day vs. $135/day) and are more effective to help seniors age successfully. Such help is available via a Section 8 Medicaid waiver and AAA 1-B can help people access it. He then moved on to talking about the state budget and discussed lithium-ion battery production and algae-growing facilities for fuel as ways to help Michigan move forward economically in today’s world.

Thanks go to Oakland Area member Barbara Suhay of the LWV DMA Board who organized the event. Thank you to Pam Brady of LWV Troy Area for the photographs from the event.

Public Advocacy for Voter Participation via VOTER REGISTRATION

What is PAVP? It stands for Public Advocacy for Voter Participation and deals with making registration and voting easier for citizens.

Carole Elder, Oakland Area Voter Registration Chair, and co-President Fran Fisher are working with LWV of Michigan on a PAVP pilot project funded by LWVUS to establish full compliance in Michigan with the National Voter Registration Act (NVRA). Specifically, the Department of Human Services (DHS) will be asked to register voters just as Secretary of State (SOS) offices do. The NVRA authorized state driver's license offices, military recruitment centers, and government offices for such clients as are serviced by the DHS offices to register voters as at local Clerk's offices.

Those who register at SOS are all treated as having done so In-Person. Our experience in 2008 registering voters at DHS showed that some of the DHS registrations are treated as In-Person, but many are treated as Mail-In, depending on the Clerk that receives the registration. The difference is that, even if someone provided the necessary proof when they registered, those considered Mail-In registrants must appear in person the first time they vote and show that same proof and cannot use an absentee ballot. This makes their participation in voting more difficult, especially for those with limited resources for transportation to the polls.

As the project progresses, Carole will be calling on LWVOA members to help register voters under the auspices of the DHS because, as Judy Bateman pointed out in her President's message, we are a trusted nonpartisan organization.

DUES are DUE for 2009-2010 League Year
